

Rabbi Daniel Rosenfelt and his wife, Amanda, have four children, daughters Miriam and Hadassah, and sons, Eliezer and Gavriel. For the past eight years, Rabbi Rosenfelt has been a Junior High School Rabbi at the Yeshiva of Central Queens, teaching sixth grade boys Gemara, and sixth, seventh, and eighth grade girls Mishna.

Rebbetzin Amanda Rosenfelt is from Cedarhurst, New York. She currently teaches fourth grade secular studies at the Bais Yaakov Academy in Queens. Whether it is hosting or greeting everyone warmly at Shul, Rebbetzin Rosenfelt takes her role as Rebbetzin very seriously.

Before arriving in Kew Gardens Hills in September of 2022, Rabbi Rosenfelt had served as the Head Rabbi at the Fleetwood Synagogue in Mount Vernon, NY. Prior to that, the Rabbi spent two years as the Associate Rabbi at the Young Israel of Holliswood in Queens. Additionally, Rabbi Rosenfelt has been a Rabbinic Consultant for Jewish Women International to help prevent possible domestic abuse in the Orthodox community in his hometown of Baltimore, MD.

Rabbi Rosenfelt received his smicha from Ner Israel Rabbinical College and his Masters of Arts degree in Pastoral Counseling from Loyola University in Maryland.
